NEWS LETTER FROM STATE DEPARTMENTS

COLUMBUS.—"A strong bulwark against the next depression." This was the phrase used by Director Charles S. Leasure of the State Unemployment Compensation Commission in describing the fund that is being set up to meet Ohio's future unemployment problems. He estimated that the fund will total more than $100,000,000 by 1939. Collections for 1936 are now approximately $17,000,000. Collections for 1937 are expected to be about $40,000,000, and for 1938 about $50,000,000. "If these estimates prove to be correct, the fund will stand at $117,000,000 at the beginning of 1939 unless in the meantime there is a serious decline in employment, which we do not anticipate," Director Leasure asserted. "This would be enough to pay maximum benefits of $15 a week for sixteen weeks, or $240 in a year, to 487,500 unemployed workers. This, of course, would eliminate the necessity for direct relief and would provide the workers with cash with which to meet their actual living expenses. When the butcher, the grocer, the baker, and the candlestick maker, so to speak, are being paid conditions will not drop to the lows of the past." Beginning in 1942 the flat per cent contribution of the employers will be replaced by a merit rating system whereby businesses with a stable employment, whose employees draw little in benefits because of little unemployment, will be rewarded with a reduction in rates. At the present time rates are the same for all employers.

Another memorial to a hero and patriot has been placed in the State House yard. It is a small but sturdy maple tree planted under auspices of Franklin County council, American Legion, in memory of Joyce Kilmer, poet and soldier, who wrote "Trees" and who gave his life in battle July 30, 1918. The tree, which was obtained from the Joyce Kilmer post of the American Legion at New Brunswick, N. J., was accepted on behalf of the state by Governor Martin L. Davey, who said: "Trees offer a living link with the past. In the years to come, this one will remind patriotic citizens of the tribute others in a day gone by, paid to a great poet and a great soldier. A special platform, bedecked with bunting, with Old Glory and the state flag of Ohio whipped by the breeze, was constructed for the ceremony."

Benjamin H. Darrow, known throughout the middle west as director of the Ohio School of the Air, sponsored by the State as radio chairman of the National Congress of Parent-Teachers. In June, Director Darrow will go to Dallas, Tex., where for six weeks he will conduct a course in radio education at Southern Methodist university, following which he will conduct a similar course at the University of Texas.

Possibility of a $50,000,000 boost in Ohio farm income for 1937 was expressed by H. C. Ramsower, chief of the agriculture extension bureau at Ohio State university. "We'll do lots better this year if we get the proper amount of spring rains and the summer season is not too dry," Mr. Ramsower asserted. "Our farmers are in far better shape than they were at this time in 1936 and higher prices may be expected." He pointed out that most of the orchards which were damaged seriously by below zero temperatures during the 1935-36 winter have been put in shape and bumper fruit crops may be anticipated.

Trustees of the Ohio State Archaeological and Historical society voted to establish what is believed to be the first lithic laboratory in the United States. It will be opened next fall and will be devoted to the study of prehistoric stone implements, particularly those found in the eastern part of the country. In preparation for the project, Director Henry C. Shetrone of the society's museum was named to make a two months' study in Europe where several lithic laboratories are located.

Paper Firm Appeals $122,462 Tax Charge

The board of tax appeals had before it Saturday a petition from the Howard Paper Co., of Urbana, O., asking set aside a $122,462 deficiency charged against its 1935 income taxes. It attacked constitutionality of the statute under which the assessment was made, saying that Section 102 of the 1934 internal revenue act "under the guise of taxation" attempts to regulate the internal affairs of corporations.

Pastor Defends Sit-Down Strike

Henry Ford is a "benevolent despot," Dr. Horace A. White, Detroit, told 150 delegates at Wilberforce University's third annual economic and vocational conference yesterday.

Dr. White, pastor of a Detroit Negro church, was active in recent auto plant strikes in that city. He declared "despotism is a bad thing" and said that while Ford attempts to pay his workers a decent wage, that factory lay-offs reduce the yearly earnings of employees to 975, far below the American standard.

He defended sit-down strikes as a "peaceful" weapon of labor, declaring this new technique of "occupying" property is an advance over the former method of "destroying" property and therefore should be tolerated by employers.

PATRIOTISM ABOVE PARTY

It is to be expected that Americans will take their politics and their political parties seriously. It will be a sad day in this country if it shall come about that the nation is governed by one party, and if no longer is there a struggle on the part of any minority to become the majority.

At the same time, there are occasions when patriotism should rise above party, and Americanism above partisanship. Fundamentally, it seems to be quite sure, most Americans agree, but there are particulars and details on which they do not agree. In essentials, therefore, no difference of opinion should arise. The Constitution, the ideals of our people in all these years and our republican form of government are questions on which men and women of all parties may, and, indeed ought, to be united.

Bennett Clark, son and successor of that great champion of democracy, Champ Clark, has, it is generally conceded, taken his political life in his hands to oppose—and that with vigor—the Roosevelt Supreme Court scheme. He spoke out with determination when he declared that plan to be wrong and to be productive of evils. He also declared that the emergency is over, and that there should be a return to basic ideals.

Bennett Clark is a Democrat, a Missouri Democrat at that. He has been true to his Democratic principles. He has gone, too, down the line with supporters of the Roosevelt policies so long as he could do so without helping to put the Constitution in danger.

He is a young man in politics, with a future before him. There is no indication that he has any idea of becoming a Republican or of leaving the historic party which his father so long and capably served. Rather, he is tired of seeing that party prostituted to policies and practices which are far removed in intent, purpose and consequence from the historic principles and actions of Jeffersonian democracy. But in taking the attitude he has taken he becomes, inevitably, the target of Mr. Roosevelt and of the New Dealers in general and in particular. He certainly will be listed by these as anti-administration, which, in New Deal interpretation, means that he is an out-and-out political heretic.

Bennett Clark understood before he made his speech what its results politically might and probably would mean. But he had the courage and the patriotism to unburden himself, and to take a definite stand, regardless of cost. He is now numbered with other Democratic senators who have spoken out fearlessly against the Court change.

He and his associates have put patriotism above partisanship, country above party, honesty of conviction above servility and sycophancy. The nation has need of many more such high-minded citizens!

—Ohio State Journal.

The Duffey coal price fixing bill is now a law having been signed Monday by Roosevelt. Tuesday the King wrote Vice President John L. Garner opposing a price fixing bill now under consideration in the Senate, as another means of forcing up the cost of living. When the Duffey coal bill gets in operation up goes the price of coal. The new high union wage scale for miners goes into effect May 1. Higher freight rates are under consideration. This also will add to the cost of coal. To defend the rights of miners, coal operators and consumers Roosevelt appoints John L. Lewis, head of the coal miners union, with five other members of the board to fix coal prices. In one breath price fixing is illegal, in the next it is legal, especially when John Lewis writes the ticket for the Chief Executive.

The death of W. Forbes Morgan, New York, relative of the Roosevelt household, who died of heart trouble in Columbus, cut short his service as president of the Distilled Spirits Institute, a liquor organization. Morgan served about a month and was to get an annual salary of $100,000 a year. The organization was formed to keep contact between the liquor interests and the Roosevelt administration, Morgan being related.

Once more floods over run river banks and drive out residents as well as business that persists on camping in the danger zone. Ninety-five percent of the people in Cincinnati forced out by the flood in January are back in the same quarters ready for the next flood. We talk much of flood protection, the building of dams and changing the course of streams, but the solution is easily solved by moving to higher ground. The river was there first. Man can do many things to control the elements but man is not infallible. Consequently some day the water will once more seek its own level taking all that man has done before it. Science has done much but floods have also written on the pages of history—the weakness of man as compared with the power behind the elements.

A newspaper man of renown not only in Ohio but over the central states spent two weeks investigating the New Deal down in Washington. He returned last week and we heard him relate many interesting events while the New Dealers remake the nation. The inner circle of the administration is frantic and things are not running smooth by any means. The brain trusters no longer trust each other. Southern senators and congressmen are making dangerous threats to upset certain legislation of the New Deal if the anti-lynching law reaches the White House and gets the presidential endorsement. At ready one congressman from the south walked into a prominent office unannounced and boldly stated that if the anti-lynching law was approved there would be an explosion in the "cash and carry" department operated by a brother of a prominent presidential appointee that deals in patronage. With the Supreme Court packing plan in doubt and the balanced budget out of the question. The New Deal has plenty of trouble in its own ranks and the King once more goes fishing in southern waters to forget administration troubles.

Down in Cincinnati a glazier employed by the board of education asked for membership in the glass workers' union. An examination for entrance was held and the union turned down the applicant as a "poor prospect." The applicant was asked as to his politics and he said "Republican." This was enough to "fail" him for admission. New Deal Democrats have the best chance for union admission—without examination.

The "No New Tax" group of consistent and conservative Democrats in the Ohio legislature, under the leadership of Lieut. Gov. Paul P. Yoder, ever mindful of the campaign slogan, "No New Taxes," have fought not only for a party pledge but in the interest of abstract economy. With Gov. Davey and his supporters piling up a 177 million appropriation bill with "New Taxes" it has fallen the lot of Lieut. Gov. Yoder to present a program that will care for all state requirements this year and next with a saving of five million or more under what Gov. Davey asks.

The New Deal Democrats in Washington want more tax revenue and propose a federal lottery. The Daveys in Ohio suggest a state lottery to provide revenue. Monday Roosevelt issues a warning prohibiting federal office holders from gambling in the stock market. Months ago Congress passed a law providing for a New Deal commission to control the stock exchange and issue of securities to make promoters honest and protect investors so they could not lose. Now the King bars government employees from gambling in a market controlled by a New Deal Commission. Gosh! What a fog envelopes official Washington?

Gold is worth about $20 an ounce in the world market but under the New Deal it is priced at $35 an ounce so Uncle Sam continues to borrow money to purchase all gold that is offered. Russia sent $200,000,000 in gold to England to be resold to this country. Canada and even far off Africa sent gold here because it is worth $15 more an ounce here than anywhere else. The government pays the banker interest on the borrowed money to pay for the gold and then the golden metal is buried in the ground in vaults in Kentucky where it costs several thousand dollars each month to pay for guards. It is great sport to be in a position to spend other people's money.

The wise man is taking no chance but is ordering his coal for next winter this month. May first coal goes up due to the Roosevelt Duffey bill, the increase in pay for miners, and an increase in freight rates if the pay of railroad trainmen is increased. To all this must be added the cost of the social security expense to coal companies. Then your local dealer has to pay for all this and pass it on to the consumer with local taxes, cost of social security for local employees, etc. This is what Roosevelt calls prosperity while the family drags down some half million for various activities, all of which means a fatter purse. High prices for coal will not disturb the honest to goodness New Deal exporter, he will pay the increase without a whimper—if he is on government or state payroll.

Court settlement of the estate of Mrs. Talbot, Dayton, financial sponsor of the Westminster Choir, shows that it was necessary to set aside certain stocks to the value of $60,000 to care for the inheritance tax. The deceased all through her life had given generously of her wealth to aid others yet following her death the greedy hand of the tax collector reaches in for a large slice.

This case recalls the recent death of a wealthy Xenia lady who left most of her estate to relatives. The family had long been residents of the county and supported many causes, however the family pocketbook was never left on the front step as the never-workers thought it should be. It is estimated that the federal and state inheritance tax for this estate will reach $250,000, of which more than $100,000 will go to Xenia City.

Some years ago the surviving lady of this family was asked by a very close friend if she would be interested in making generous gift for an endowment fund for a worthy cause. What do you suppose was her reply? "It has been my observation that too frequently trust funds are manipulated for most any cause the authority in charge wishes. A trust fund no longer has the support of the courts as it once had, and boards in charge of gift funds have no hesitancy in diverting the gift to whatever use they see fit, regardless of the wishes of the deceased." The lady's will so far as we know left nothing to any endowment fund for any purpose.

THEATRE NOTES

Romance runs rampant, adventure has its fling and love conquers all in the delightful new M-G-M comedy melodrama, "Love on the Run" which comes to the Cozy screen Saturday night. Teaming those two exhilarating and colorful personalities, Joan Crawford and Clark Gable, in a dash of modern doings by ultra-modern people the new picture provides excitement and laughter in an entertainment melange of an heiress, a fortune-hunting nobleman, two American correspondents and a brace of European crooks.

The winning of the West during the decade 1866-76 is the basis of Cecil DeMille's first American epic, "The Plainsman," a tribute to the hard-riding, hard-fighting men of action who opened the West for immigration, which begins May 2 at the Cozy Theatre.

"The Plainsman," named for "Wild Bill" Hickok, the famous plainsman, tells of the love Hickok bore the frontier beauty and woman-of-action, "Calamity Jane." Gary Cooper plays Hickok and Jean Arthur portrays "Calamity Jane," the first time the handsome pair have been together since "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town." Behind this story stretches a vast canvas which embraces all the forces and intrigues at work during the era which resulted in the opening of the West and the building of America.

HOME CULTURE CLUB

ENJOYS MUSIC PROGRAM

The Home Culture Club was entertained at the home of Mrs. Cora Trumbo last Thursday afternoon. The program was of a musical nature in as much as National Music Week opens May 2, and was under the direction of Mrs. Walter Corry, West Jefferson, formerly of this place and a member of the club.

Seventeen members and ten guests responded to roll call with names of composers, after which Mrs. Corry presented Mr. Marion Frook and Mrs. Bertisl Farris, of Springfield, as guest artists.

Mr. Frook sang two solos, "Come to the Fair," and "A Brown Bird Singing," and Mrs. Farris, organist at the Christian Congregational Church, Springfield, played a piano solo, "Old Fashioned Music Box." Mrs. Corry and Mr. Frook then sang two duets, "Rose of My Heart" and "I Feel Thy Angel Spirit." Mr. Frook, who also is a talented violinist, played "The Rosary," by Nevin, accompanied by Mrs. Farris.

A clever number, "Fiddle and I" was then presented by Mrs. Corry, Mrs. Farris and Mr. Frook. Following this group singing was enjoyed by the club, the numbers including "Nellie Gray," "The Levee Song," "Swanee River," "Old Black Joe" and "Home on the Range."

Mrs. Corry sang "Will You Remember?" and Mr. Frook sang "I Hear You Calling Me," and then joined

NOT MUCH HEADWAY MADE IN SCHOOL MERGER

The controversy raging in Xenia Twp. School District as to division of territory or merger with Xenia City schools was no nearer solution following a meeting of the County Board of Education last Monday than when started. However it is expected that some definite action will be taken at another meeting this coming Monday. Two petitions on file ask for transfer for territory to Silvercreek Twp. or all of Xenia Twp. district to Xenia City. The third and largest petition contains more than 800 names asking that the district be left as it is. The question of school tax rate figures largely in the discussion in as much as the Xenia City rate is higher than the township rate. If the merger goes through Xenia City district must erect a new building and there is some doubt that such a bond issue would even carry in the city. If the township remains as it a centralized building would be required and then comes the question whether a bond issue would carry there, according to observers.

Temperance Notes

Sponsored by Cedarville W. C. T. U.

Senator Morris Sheppard of Texas delivered his annual Prohibition anniversary address January 16 before the United States Senate. The galleries were crowded. In this address he said: "Another part of the new scene is the new saloon—a thousand times more alluring, more enticing, more dangerous than the old . . . It was promised that when the Eighteenth Amendment was repealed the old saloon would not be permitted to return . . . but thoughtful observers of social conditions today are inquiring whether these modern substitutes for the saloon are not in many respects far worse. The employment of hostesses and barmaids, including many young girls, and the presence of women and girl patrons in growing numbers in these new liquor places are developing serious problems."

The following is taken from the Cleveland News, January 25; "Liquor dealers of Cuyahoga county hope to lead more people to their places of business but they also hope to make them drink less. In fact, they are planning a campaign with this message for the public: "Drink moderately."

How amusing! We remember there was a group of prominent men and women a year or two ago organized to teach men and women to "drink with moderation," but they soon found it was a hopeless task and disbanded.

When national prohibition went into effect it closed 177,000 saloons, to which the sale of all intoxicating liquors was restricted and which were hedged about with all manner of regulatory and restrictive legislation. We now have approximately 500,000 outlets or places of sale for intoxicating beverages, most of them with almost no restriction.

The Ohio House of Representatives voted this month 82 to 39, $10,000,000 for salary and maintenance to the State Department of Liquor Control. This does not include the expense of stocking the shelves of the state stores. The amount voted covers two years.

While millions of dollars are collected from the liquor business in revenue, we are spending tens of millions in court costs, enforcement expenses, relief, etc.

Barmen Complain About Lipstick Lipsticks do not make women drinkers any more attractive to bartenders, as reported by members of the Ohio Board of Liquor Control who recently learned about the difficulties of the man behind the bar in these modern days of sanitation. No more is ordinary rinsing of glasses sufficient. Scouring with a brush, which of course, means extra time and labor spent on the job.

No Liquor Ads On Fire Station The Bureau of Fire and Police of Providence, Rhode Island, does not want drink-o-meters on the fire stations. Recently an advertisement was found to be adorning the doorway of one of the fire stations advertising a certain brand of whisky and suggesting suitable drinks at certain times. The matter was reported to the bureau, and the device was immediately ordered removed as a violation of a city ordinance controlling outdoor advertising.

Arthur Evans has been elected president of the Greene County 4-H Club Executive Council for 1937. A. A. Neff, Beaver Creek Twp., vice president; Mrs. Faye Murry, Xenia Twp., secretary; Mrs. R. B. McKay, Caesar Creek Twp., treasurer.

CLEVELAND FIRM SURVEYING FIELD FOR PICKLE BRANCH

The establishment of a branch of The W. H. Madison Co., Cleveland and Medina pickle company, is open to farmers of this vicinity. Mr. Ben Weaver, representative of the company, has been making a survey as to the possibilities. He has interested County Agent Drake, who says the soil in this vicinity is favorable to pickle production.

The advantages of a side crop are many fold in that such crops as sweet corn, tomatoes, pickles, etc., can be harvested between other crops and bring in revenue in the late summer.

We are told the ordinary pickle crop ranges from 200 bushels to 400 bushels per acre and that sections of Ohio that are taking on these side crops are reaping a good financial reward for their efforts.

As the years go on there will be more acreage to such crops for the simple reason there will be a greater demand. Fewer families are "canning" such supplies as in former days and are depending on the grocery market for supplies.

There are few farms that have not a spot of an acre or so that cannot be spared for a pickle crop. It is a fine opportunity for the 4-H Club boys and girls to earn extra money.

The company must have contracts for 100 acres in this community before a branch can be opened. If you are interested you can communicate with J. M. McMillan of this place.

Congratulations go to the Galvin brothers for their success in the publishing field.

Plan Crop Rotation For Strip-Cropping

Ohio farmers who intend to employ strip-cropping to decrease soil erosion on their farms are advised by Earl Jones, agronomist, Ohio State University, to consider carefully plans for crop rotations so they will get the greatest benefits from this cropping system.

Mr. Jones says most of the soil erosion occurring in Ohio takes place when the land is planted to corn so great care should be used in planning for this crop. On some farms, it will be possible to grow sufficient corn on bottom lands so this crop can be kept off the hill-sides. Bottom lands will produce corn successfully in a two-year rotation, and it is possible to keep production fairly high when corn is grown each year if large amounts of manure are applied.

If the corn must be grown on hill-sides, the amount of soil erosion is lessened considerably if a good soil has been plowed down ahead of the corn. The corn rows should follow the contour of the hills, and the strips of corn should be kept narrow. The crop rotation recommended for use in strip-cropping is corn, grain, and two or more years of hay.

Wheat or rye should be used as the grain crop rather than oats, which would leave the ground exposed during the winter. Where oats are used, a seeding of legumes or grasses should be made when the oats are planted. All seedlings in any grain should be made in the spring if strip-cropping is practiced. Such seedlings will protect the ground in the fall and winter.

Mr. Jones recommends an alfalfa-grass mixture as the best. The alfalfa lives longer than clover and improves the soil more. Either timothy or orchard grass can be used in the alfalfa-grass mixture. Clover-grass mixtures rank next in value.

These hay crops are very important and the soil should be prepared for the production of alfalfa and clover as soon as possible if successful crops cannot be produced without special treatments. Lime is the first essential in preparing the soil for legumes. Ohio records show that a dollar spent for lime on farms returns three or four dollars to the owner.

GIRL SCOUT NEWS

The weekly meeting of the Girl Scouts was held at Jeanne Wright's on Tuesday evening. We learned to tie the "sheep shank's" knot, which is used to shorten a rope and the two half hitches knot. Several members took their tenderfoot test. Twenty-seven members were present.

CHICKENS

History shows that money is usually made by "doing the opposite to what the crowd does." Its our idea that such will hold good in the chicken business between now and fall. Advertisements of bargain price chickens and the early closing of hatcheries means that the demand for chicks has been light in the face of high priced grains. This can only mean high prices for chickens and eggs six months hence when a shortage is bound to be felt. Anyone with the nerve to buck the high priced grain and get chickens ready for fall should make money.

To do so a sound program should be laid out to take advantage of every means of cutting the corners on cost. A good startin' mash must be used for six weeks (broiler ration) then between six and eight weeks, switch to supplement and local grains (not mash) fed "cafeteria" style so that the chickens can balance their own diets. All tests shows this method saves the higher priced supplement feed and can be continued right on through as a laying feed. Such a program using WAYNE STARTER and WAYNE 26 PER CENT SUPPLEMENT will do better than break even on present prices and should make money six months hence. Come in for feed cost and consumption figures and think out this poultry problem.

"MY NEW FORD V-8 IS A REAL FARMER'S CAR"

• "I've always liked the Ford, and this year I like it better than ever.

"For one thing, it gives me all the space I want. I can get Mother and the children in without crowding. And there's always room in the rear compartment for a milk can and a couple of egg crates.

"And economy! Say, you wouldn't believe the gas mileage I'm getting. I'm going to make a real saving on that alone. It's easy on oil, and so far I haven't spent a cent on repairs. And the prices are lower this year too.

"The fact is, we all like this year's Ford V-8 better than any car we've ever had. It's comfortable, it's easy to handle, and it looks like a thoroughbred." Why don't you get your Ford dealer to give you a demonstration the next time you're in town?
